

Street kids project in Delhi, India

God's love in action...

www.kingscare.org

This is Sukhbir. His mother and father live by the roadside in rural India and Sukhbir ended up on the streets of Delhi. He is just 7 years old and lost his hand in a train accident.

Children like Sukhbir are vulnerable and will soon end up in crime unless they can be reached by the good news of the gospel.

To help children like him costs just £10 a month.

Costs

Here are estimated running costs per month for each centre:

Teachers (2)	£130
Nutrition	£30
Medical	£20
Clothes	£10
Training	£30
De-addiction	£20
Office costs	£50
Total	£290

In addition the project needs money for capital items.

Information about the project

In Delhi, the capital of India, there are tens of thousands of children living rough on the streets.

These are children who have been rejected by their families or who have run away from home. They are often into crime or begging. Some have menial jobs. Many sniff glue.

Our friends, Sanjiv and Sushila, are working amongst such children as these. At the moment they have 3 centres but they have big plans. They aim to have 10 centres around Delhi within 3 years. Kingscare is planning to help them to turn their vision into reality.

The goal of the project is to empower children, to improve the quality of their lives, and to help them to hope and dream again.

The programme

- Non-formal and life skills education
- Nutrition and a mid-day meal
- Health care
- Vocational training
- Counselling

Sanjiv says, "The programme comes with lots of love and also our friendship and support".

The project will help children like Anil who is 15 years old and a shoe-shine boy. Prakash is also a shoe-shine boy who is 12 years old and already into crime. The project can help these children and give them hope and a future.

Will you help us? Please could you make it possible for us to be in a position to make an on-going commitment. Just twenty people, each giving £15 a month by bankers order enables us to support one of Sanjiv's centres.
